

News

2012, December 11, DGHI Awards Grants for International travel.

<https://globalhealth.duke.edu/news/dghi-awards-grants-international-travel>

2014, February 25th, Duke Global Health Institute News: Stimulating Global Health Research with DGHI Pilot Funds.

2017, February 14th, DGHI Awards Pilot Grants for Global Environmental Health Projects.

<https://globalhealth.duke.edu/news/dghi-awards-pilot-grants-global-environmental-healthprojects>

2018, May 15, Mimicking the human placental barrier

<https://medschool.duke.edu/blog/medx-bridging-gap#placenta>

Duke Med Alumni News: The Placenta Model.

2019, July 16, Four Lessons from a Novice Field. DGHI

<https://globalhealth.duke.edu/news/four-lessons-novice-field-researcher>

2020, February, NIEHS Environmental Factor, Science Highlights, Replacement chemicals may put pregnancies at risk.

<https://factor.niehs.nih.gov/2020/2/science-highlights/replacement/index.htm>

2022, Global concerns for maternal health come close to home: Liping Feng's preeclampsia research connects with local PFAS contamination

- Duke Today and Duke School of Medicine Highlights (July 27th and August 10, 2022)
https://today.duke.edu/2022/07/global-concerns-maternal-health-come-close-home?utm_source=newsletter&utm_medium=email&utm_content=Measuring%20PFAS%20exposure%20in%20pregnancy&utm_campaign=dukedaily2022-07-28
- Duke Global Health Institute Newsletter and Duke Ob/Gyn Magazine (August 2022 and February, 2022)
<https://mailchi.mp/duke/worldview-building-a-brain-trust-to-fight-epilepsy-in-uganda-7277605?e=e109bea263>