The Donald T. Moore, MD, Endowed Lecture honors the legacy of the esteemed physician, educator and community leader. Following the evolving desegregation of Duke Hospital, Dr. Moore had a tremendous impact as the first African American Fellow in the School of Medicine; he also served as Chief of Ob/Gyn at Lincoln Hospital, and trained many Duke residents, medical students and nurses.

Featured speaker Ebony Carter, MD, MPH, is an associate professor and director of the Division of Maternal-Fetal Medicine in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Her research focuses on group prenatal care as a tool to promote health equity and is funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, National Institutes of Health and the American Diabetes Association. Dr. Carter is a graduate of the Duke University School of Medicine.

A panel discussion on combating disparities in maternal health care will follow the remarks. CMEs will be available to Duke users with a CME account and non-Duke users with a Duke OneLink account. A virtual option is available.

Panelists

Ruth Gilliam-Phillips, DPS, MS
Executive Director, Community Health Coalition

Maya Jackson, CD
Founder and Executive Director, MAAME, Inc.

Maria Small, MD, MPH
Associate Professor and Maternal-Fetal Medicine Specialist, Duke Ob/Gyn

This event is open to the community.