

Volunteers needed for research study on how to support women experiencing infertility

Researchers at Duke are conducting a study to understand factors that contribute to stress during infertility. Findings will help design a psychological intervention to support women experiencing infertility.

Participants will Receive

1 in 10 participants will receive an Amazon gift card.

Location

Survey will be entirely online.

Are you eligible?

- 1) Currently experiencing infertility and actively trying to conceive.
- 2) 18-60 years old.
- 3) Living in the U.S.

If you are interested, please scan the QR code below using your phone camera to be linked directly to the survey.

Questions?

Contact a member of the team:

Stephanie Schuette
stephanie.schuette@duke.edu

This study has been approved by the Duke Health Institutional Review Board Pro00106598.